Evaluation Criteria – 4 Areas

I. Population Served: Equity Lens - while COVID-19 has affected all residents of the county, not everyone has the same access to health and social services. Prioritizing populations and zip codes helps address the needs of hard to reach communities and generally underserved individuals and households

• Priority Populations (one point for each, maximum of 5 points)
• Priority Zip Codes (one point for each, maximum of 10 points)
II. Services: Equity Lens - services must be tailored to meet language and cultural needs to meet people where they are and understand what they need from both a health and socio-economic perspective

- Direct food assistance types that meets needs of the community served (up to 5 points)

- Provides examples of how purchase and distribution of culturally appropriate food will be addressed (up to 15 points)

- Provides examples of how language differences will be addressed to ensure appropriate outreach and engagement (up to 15 points)
III. Impact: Equity Lens - underserved and hard to reach communities generally have greater health, educational, and socio-economic disparities. Identifying these communities, acknowledging their challenges and strengths, and increasing resources in these communities can have a greater impact and decrease disparities over time.

• The proposal will meet the food security needs prioritized by the taskforce (up to 10 points)
• Provides direct food assistance to vulnerable and/or unreached populations (up to 10 points)
• Builds community capacity to address vulnerable and/or unreached populations' needs (up to 10 points)
Evaluation Criteria

IV. Feasibility: Equity Lens - implementation of a plan to reach underserved populations requires thoughtfulness and innovation, but must also be practical, safe, and appropriate for that community.

• Service description, project budget, and the overall organizational capacity (i.e., staff, volunteers, partners, etc.). (up to 15 points)

• Describes plan to protect staff and clients using PPE and cleaning protocols (up to 5 points)
